I thought i could make us a chat thread, I know from your posts that you've been going through a lot and I just want you to know that I wish i could help in any way possible.

Now with that aside, The answer to your question on my homethread, absolutely! I would love to be a part of your forum fam, only problem is i already have two forum sibs and we call ourselves the triplets and so i really can't mess that up it's been that way for a while now. However we could be forum something else, like cousins, etc i either way i would really love to be a part of your forum family in some way.

Anyways how is everything with you currently? I know things are probably still bad, but I really do hope things get better for, just know that if there is ever anything i can do don't hesitate to ask, okay? If ever you want to plan an rp or story or something just summon me.
